DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 19 December 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant makes the following argument:

Claim 1 is directed to a method wherein a first output from the first weight detecting unit is obtained. Also, a second output from a different second weight detecting unit is obtained. The second output changes inversely at a rate similar to the rate at which the first output changes. This is because the second weight detecting unit provides a set of strain resistors on an opposite side of the sensor plate as the first weight detecting unit. Consequently, when the weight of the occupant is calculated, the output of one of the first and second weight detecting units is inverted with respect to the other before they are added together.

Mehney does not disclose a method "calculating the weight of the occupant based on a value obtained by inverting the output from one of the first and second weight detecting units and adding the inverted output to the output from the other weight detecting unit." The assemblies of Mehney are identical so there is no inverted output. As a consequence, claim 1 and the claims which depend from it are not anticipated by Mehney.

The examiner is not sure that this argument is accurate since the arrangement of strain sensors shown in Figure 2 of Mehney looks identical to the arrangement shown in applicant's Figure 10A (which applicant appears to be claiming), and the circuit arrangement shown in Figure 3 of Mehney seems to be the same as shown in applicant's Figure 10B. An identical structure and an identical circuit must have the same function. What is applicant's "inverting" means and how is it structurally different that the arrangement shown in the Mehney reference? More explanation is needed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mehney et al (US # 6,039,344). See column 3, lines 16-55.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
